Election/Restrictions

1. Claims 1-4, 8-14 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a nonelected groups, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Applicant timely traversed the restriction (election) requirement in the reply filed on 10-25-2007.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 3. Claims 5-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yamao (US PAT: 7,200,220, filed 3-16-2000) in view of Katou (JP411261630A) and Murooka (JP2002259310A).

Regarding claim 5, Yamao discloses a mobile terminal apparatus (1, fig. 1) comprising: storage means (17, fig. 1) for storing data, communication means (12, fig. 1) for communication via communication network (3, fig. 1), and a controller (15, fig. 1) for transmitting specified data to a specified server (4, fig. 1) when a specified instruction is received via communication means and erasing the specified data from the storage means after transmission is completed (col. 3, line 23 – col. 4, line 32; col. 7 lines 36-45).

Regarding claim 6, Yamao further teaches the following: the controller (15, fig. 1) transmits data to the server (4, fig. 1) only when at least one of the following conditions is fulfilled such as information regarding sender of the communication matches previously registered sender information (reads on registered telephone number: col. 5 lines 7-24).

Application/Control Number:

10/790,676 Art Unit: 2614

Yamao differs from claimed invention in that he does not discloses using electronic mail for interaction between server and mobile terminal.

However, it is well known in the art to use electronic mail for transmission and reception information between server and mobile terminal as disclosed by Katou (see abstract) and as disclosed by Murooka (see abstract).

Thus, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time invention was made to modify Yamao's system to provide for use of electronic mail for interacting between mobile terminal and server as this arrangement would provide well known means for interaction between server and communication terminals as taught by Katou and Murooka.

4. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yamao in view of Katou and Murooka as applied to claim 5 above, and further in view of Shinkawa (JP2001-309431).

The combination differs from claim 7 in that it does not specifically teach: data erasing processing performed after transmitted to the server is suppressed depending upon type of the data.

However, Shinkawa discloses method of protecting data recorded in mobile terminal, and mobile terminal data protection system which teaches: erasing processing performed after transmitted to the server is suppressed (see abstract).

Application/Control Number:

Thus, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time invention was made to modify the combination to provide for the following: data erasing processing performed after transmitted to the server is suppressed depending upon type of the data in order to conserve computing resources in case data stored in the mobile terminal is of non-critical nature as would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

--(US2004/0025053) to Hayward discloses a personal data device and method for storing personal data including authorization means for restricting access to the stored personal data to an authorized user and communication means for transferring at leat some of the data personal data between personal data device and a server (abstract; paragraph: 0092).

--(JP2003-061151) to Shinkwa discloses method for preventing data recorded in a missing mobile terminal from being read, falsified or deleted by other and to provide a mobile terminal data protection system (abstract).
